Request under The Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002

Thank you for your Freedom of Information request dated 8 February 2022, in which you requested the following:

My query is with regards to covid grants given to businesses by VisitScotland and I’d be grateful for a reply to the following questions -

1. Is VisitScotland aware of any fraudulent claims and, if so, can you say how many please?

2. As a follow-up to question one, can you say how much these fraudulent claims amounted to in total please? E.g. £2m?

3. Please provide all internal correspondence and communications regarding fraudulent covid grant claims.

4. Can you provide any correspondence and communications with the Scottish Government regarding this issue please.

5. What due diligence checks were carried out prior to the awarding of covid grants please?

I have considered your request and can respond as follows:

1. Following a report being made to Police Scotland on 2 March 2022, we formally notified the Scottish Government on 9 March 2022 regarding an identified instance or instances of fraud. We are exempting any further information in this respect under sections 35 (1) (a) (prevention or detection of crime) and 35 (1) (b) (apprehension or prosecution of offenders) of FOISA.

2. The amount this instance or instances represent is in total less than 0.1% of the total covid grant funding distributed by VisitScotland. At this time, due to the ongoing Police Scotland investigation, we are exempting the exact value under sections 35 (1) (a) (prevention or detection of crime) and 35 (1) (b) (apprehension or prosecution of offenders) of FOISA.

3. We are exempting correspondence relating to this instance or instances of fraud under sections 35 (1) (a) (prevention or detection of crime) and 35 (1) (b) (apprehension or prosecution of offenders) of FOISA.

4. Please see the separate attachment containing the email sent to the Scottish Government on 9 March 2022. The report referred to has been exempted under sections 35 (1) (a) (prevention or detection of crime) and 35 (1) (b) (apprehension or prosecution of offenders) of FOISA. Personal data has been redacted from this email in accordance with section 38 (1) (b) of FOISA.

5. Criteria and processes for each of our funds was outlined in the individual fund criteria available at visitscotland.org. Each fund was managed as a project with a dedicated project manager, project owner and support teams. Subject matter experts, including legal and finance, provided support across all of our individual funds. We also procured the independent services of Chiene & Tait to complete appropriate due diligence work and finance checks across the applications.

The due diligence process consisted of mandatory documents to be provided by the applicant, using independent sources to check the information provided was for legitimate businesses (such as companies house numbers), documents to enable us to confirm correct bank details and appropriate insurance documents that covered the business’s activities.

We have also applied the public interest test in respect of the information exempted under sections 35 (1) (a) and 35 (1) (b) of FOISA. Please see below for the competing arguments identified within the public interest test exercise:

Why the public interest would be served by disclosing the information:
- Disclosure of the information may contribute to ensuring effective oversight of expenditure of public funds and that the public obtain value for money but in our view, disclosure is unlikely to serve this purpose.

Why the public interest would be served by maintaining the exemption:
- Passage of time is a key consideration. Given the live police investigation, disclosure of the information may compromise the ability of the police to establish the identity of or apprehend those involved and/or secure prosecution of people suspected of being responsible for committing the fraudulent activity.

- Disclosure would not contribute to ensuring effective oversight of expenditure of public funds and that the public obtain value for money. Indeed, the information may encourage attempts at similar fraudulent activity.

Due to the outcome of this balancing exercise, we have judged that in all circumstances of the case, the public interest in maintaining the exemption outweighs that of disclosure of the information.

We hope this information is helpful to you. If, however, you are not satisfied with our response or the manner in which we have dealt with your application, you may in the first instance contact our Chief Executive, Malcolm Roughead, whose contact details are set out below:
